

Communications & New Media Internship at Survivor Corps

About you:

You want to make a difference on the other side of the world without leaving DC.

You see unlimited possibilities for using new media tools to build bridges of peace all over the globe.

You're innovative, a self-starter, and hungry for a challenge.

About us:

Survivor Corps helps survivors of war and violence heal and transform communities. We partner with local organizations throughout the world to aid individual recovery, ease community reintegration, and promote survivor advocacy.

We use traditional and innovative communications techniques to build the movement of survivors teaching and helping each other recover from trauma and give back to their communities.

Responsibilities:

Help maintain Survivor Corps' online presence—post photos and events, monitor and contribute to discussions, flag inappropriate content, and recruit new friends and supporters.

Scan the news for potential blog and newsletter story content.

Write blog posts for the Survivor Corps website.

Communicate with Survivor Corps partner organizations to gather survivor stories, campaign and program updates, photos, and videos for use on the Survivor Corps website and in newsletters, media pitches, etc.

Help create and maintain an archive of Survivor Corps media appearances as well as requests and contact information from members of the media. Tag and file the extensive archive of Survivor Corps photographs.

Help with administrative tasks such as assembling materials and coordinating logistics for our annual New York gala awards event.

Qualified applicants will possess:

- Excellent written and oral communication skills
- Knowledge of various social networking platforms and online trends
- References and experience that demonstrate reliability and attention to detail
- Experience working constructively with others
- A background or demonstrable interest in communications, marketing, web development and/or campaign work

Exceptionally qualified applicants will possess:

- Knowledge of HTML, XHTML, Flash
- Web-based CMS experience, including NetCommunity

Hours:

20 hrs/wk

Compensation: Transportation stipend

What are you waiting for?

Join the Survivor Corps communications team as we share stories of survival and amplify the voices of survivors of war and violence. Send us your resume and a cover letter telling us why you're applying and what you hope accomplish during your internship. If you blog, make movies, take pictures, record music, write for offline publications, or have a hobby we'd love to see samples of your work!

Please send cover letter and resume to the following street or email address:

Survivor Corps
Human Resources – Communications Intern
2100 M Street, NW #302
Washington, DC 20037

Employment@survivorcorps.org

Please state that the application is for Communications Intern